

BANKS LANE BLOG

Tuesday 9th June 2020.

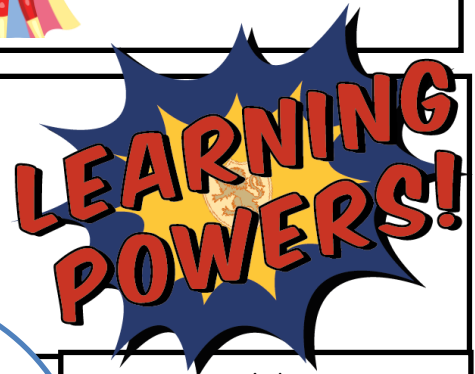

Hi everyone, we hope you are all keeping safe and happy. We are looking forward to welcoming some of our year 6 children back into school this week. School may look and seem a little different but remember that it's still the same Banks Lane that we all knew and loved before lockdown!

If you're feeling nervous about returning to school, use your Communication Wizard learning power and talk to someone about it, you will feel much better once you share your worries.

Did you know?

The opposite sides of a dice always add up to seven!

Why not use your Cosmic Curiosity to check this out?

Joke of the day.

Did you get the answer correct to yesterday's joke?

How do we know the ocean is friendly?*

-Because it WAVES!

Think you know better jokes?

Email them to us, you never know they could feature on tomorrow's blog!

If you're learning at home, remember to keep in contact with your teachers. You can email them, even if it's just to say hello!

Birthdays.

Can you guess which member of staff is celebrating their birthday today?

Here are some clues:

- They love dogs (especially poodles!)
- They can be quite clumsy!
- Their favourite colour is pink!

Any ideas? Email us with your answer!

Reading challenge.

The Open University have listed lots of different ways you can still read for pleasure at home. Click on this link, Open University reading challenge, to see some of their challenges. How long will it take you to complete all of the challenges? Which challenge was most fun? Remember to send us pictures of your secret reading forts, recreated front covers or any other creative ways you enjoy reading at home. Check out these book reviews online, have you read any of the recommended books? Perhaps the reviews may inspire you to read something different? book reviews.
