

BANKS LANE BLOG

Day 2!

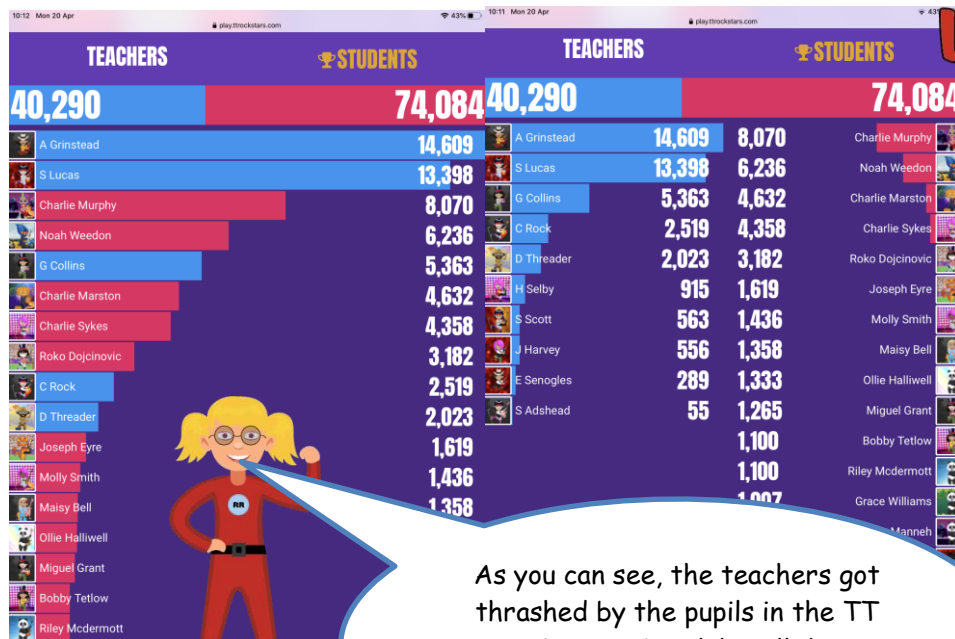

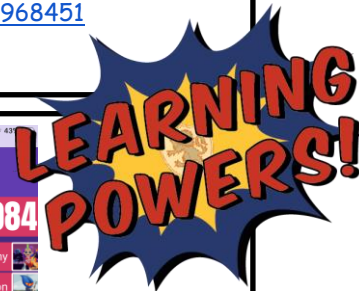

Remember to email your teachers for suggestions, quotes, stories etc. We'd love to get some in the blog! Remember to ask your teacher to send them on to me (Mr Bassett).

Our website is being updated regularly. The username is children and the password is bankslane. We are currently looking into other resources that will help you at home. Stay tuned!

Creativity and Confidence at Home

See the link below for some messages from celebrities which encourage us to be confident and creative at home. <https://vimeo.com/409475949>

This is the second in the series. Here's a link to the first one in the series. How many celebrities do you recognise? <https://vimeo.com/403968451>

As you can see, the teachers got thrashed by the pupils in the TT Rock Stars battle! Well done pupils and well done to everyone who took part!

Joke of the Day

I went to the butchers who had lots of meat hanging from the ceiling. He said to me, 'If you can jump and grab that meat, you can have it. But if you miss, you'll have to give me £100.'

I thought for a moment while looking at the meat. Then I eventually replied, 'I'm sorry, the steaks (stakes) are just too high!'

Daily Challenge!

Children at school have been busy creating and displaying 'thank you' messages for our NHS heroes. Why not have a go! What could you make and how could you display it? While on my morning run, I've seen painted rocks, posters in windows, even a whole window painted with 'Thank you NHS!' (I'd ask permission before doing this!) Be creative!
