

BANKS LANE BLOG

Day 2!

Have you done the Joe Wicks PE lesson yet? Remember, it's on at 9.00 every morning. Stay active! Don't forget to write in your diary!

NEW Daily Maths Lessons - LIVE!

Every weekday at 10.00am

Just go to the maths page in REMOTE LEARNING and follow the link to White Rose Maths.

Our Learning Powers are going to come in very handy in the coming weeks: keep developing resilience, find other ways of communicating, reflect on your learning, be curious by finding things out on your own. Collaboration is really important: your parents will need your help! Be kind, be helpful, work together.

Interesting Fact

Yesterday, McDonald's closed their doors, but did you know that McDonald's once made bubble gum flavoured broccoli? They were trying to get children to eat healthier, but it didn't go down very well! Would you eat bubble gum flavoured broccoli? What flavour would you make the broccoli? Salted caramel? Banana? Toffee?

Check out what else is going on in the world by watching BBC Newsround.

<https://www.bbc.co.uk/newsround>

Joke of the Day

A lorry-load of tortoises crashed into a trainload of terrapins.

What a turtle disaster !

Captain Collaboration

Says:

How can you help your parents today?
Let's work as a team!

Birthdays!

Happy Birthday to Jake in 6S for yesterday!

Mr Bassett's wise thought:

When you clean a vacuum cleaner, you become a vacuum cleaner.

Today's Challenge!

Yesterday we challenged you to make a structure out of paper! We'd love to see some images - simply email them to admin@bankslane-jun.stockport.sch.uk

Today's challenge is to learn or refine a genuine life skill - making paper aeroplanes (also, learn how to spell aeroplane - this is the English spelling!) Challenge your family to a fly-off! Research how to make the best one - use YouTube tutorials to help.

